WHAT HAPPENS ON ARRIVAL....

On arrival at your shoot location, we will initially have a chat and say hello to your horse. It's important they are comfortable with me and my equipment so I like to give them chance to have a sniff of me and the camera! We will have a walk around your yard so I can plan a few locations I think will be perfect to shoot at. We'll then discuss your outfits and make a plan of what outfits we are going to shoot when, and in what location. You'll have a chance to ask any questions and make any suggestions for the shoot.

HOW TO PREPARE FOR YOUR SHOOT

Before the day of the shoot, plan some outfits. I recommend 3 outfits – a smart, smart casual and a relaxed casual. If you are unsure, bring a few and we will decide the looks to go for on the day. On the day of the shoot, make sure your horse is clean and well-groomed before I arrive. Generally, a more natural unplaited look is best. It's also a good idea to clean your bridal or headcollar before the shoot!

WHAT TO EXPECT?

Expect some fun and laughter, but also a bit of hard work. Animals can be unpredictable and not always on their best behaviour, but this is totally to be expected so please don't be disheartened if your horse is a little fidgety or won't stand still. The best shots are the unplanned ones and it's the fidgety horses who are often the most photographic as they are more alert! Ultimately, patience is key with an equine portrait shoot. My best advice is to stay relaxed and keep smiling!

WHEN TO SCHEDULE?

Any time of year is fine. Obviously living here in good old blighty, we need to take the weather into consideration. I always keep an eye on weather reports in the run up to your shoot and if it changes or looks like we are going to get soaked in an all-day downpour, we will reschedule. Timewise, I am flexible however I work a lot with natural light so earlier in the morning or later afternoons work best.

If you have any questions at all about your shoot in the run up to it, please feel free to call or email me and I will be happy to help you in any way I can. I can assist you with outfit suggestions, or provide guidance with the type of images you would like to capture.

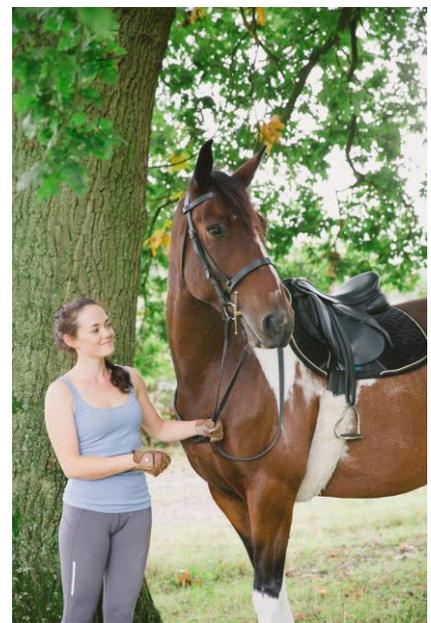

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER MY PHOTOSHOOT?

Images from your shoot will be culled down and slightly edited. They will then be loaded into a private gallery on my website where you will be able to view them from the comfort of your own home.

Each package includes one complimentary high resolution digital image of your choice.

Extra images can be purchased directly from the gallery: prints are available from £4.49, a single digital high-resolution image is £10, all the images from your shoot (approximately 60-70) on a disc £199.
